

Print Bookmark Request this item

A Textbook of Preventive Medicine

Author: McNeil, J.J.; King, R.W.F; Jennings, G.L.; Powles. J.W.

Publication Year: 1990

Item available on request

Request this item

Contents

Contributors

Preface

Chapter 1. Morbidity and mobility in Australia: How much is preventable?

Chapter 2. Strategies for prevention

Chapter 3. Screening programmes in disease control

Chapter 4. Prenatal and presymptomatic diagnosis in genetic disease

Chapter 5. The prevention of breast cancer and cervical cancer

Chapter 6. Cancer prevention: Gastrointestinal cancer

Chapter 7. Perspectives on immunisation

Chapter 8. Malaria: Current strategies for protection against malaria and prospects for vaccines

Chapter 9. Control of Viral Hepatitis

Chapter 10. Epidemiology of HIV infection

Chapter 11. Prevention of coronary heart disease and stroke: An overview

Chapter 12. Prospects for the non-pharmacological control of hypertension

Chapter 13. What can be learnt from the major drug trials in hypertension?

Chapter 14. Large scale trials of lipid movement

Chapter 15. Smoking cessation strategies

Chapter 16. Declining cardiovascular mortality: Lessons for preventive medicine

Chapter 17. Obesity: Its prevention

Chapter 18. Alcohol: Individual abuse, community responsibility

Chapter 19. Prospects for prevention of osteoporosis

Chapter 20. Injury control

Chapter 21. Disease prevention in the workplace

Chapter 22. Global patterns and disadvantaged populations

Chapter 23. Inequalities in health: The epidemiological evidence - and the gaps
Chapter 24. Prevention in general practice
Chapter 25. The role of health social science in preventive medicine
Chapter 26. Preventive geriatric medicine: Anticipatory care and the elderly
Chapter 27. The economics of prevention
Chapter 28. The role of advertising in preventive medicine
Chapter 29. Current directions in public health and preventive medicine
Chapter 30. An uncertain future: Human conflict and environmental disruption

| | |
|-----------------------|---|
| Format | Print |
| Keywords | cervical cancer, breast cancer, cancer, cancer research, preventive care, preventive medicine, renal cancer, gynaecologic cancer, gastrointestinal cancer, heart diseases |
| Publisher | Edward Arnold A division of Hodder and Stoughton |
| Classification | preventive medicine |
| ISBN | 071318342X |
| Pages | 340 |
| Categories: | Books |