

Print Bookmark Request this item

Changes in the structure of Irish General Practice over the past decade: 1982-1992

Author: Oliver, Dr Barry; Comber, Dr Harry;ICGP

Publication Year: 1994

Item available on request

Request this item

Contents

Summary

Introduction: The background

Methods

Results;

Distribution of doctors

Response rate

Characteristics of the General Practitioners; Age, Sex, Marital status, Full-time practice, Education: Undergraduate, Postgraduate qualifications, Postgraduate hospital experience, Vocational training;

Practice structure; Practice type, List sizes: GMS lists, Private lists, Total list sizes

Out of hours duty; Monday to Friday, Weekends, Off duty cover

Practice Activities; Services provided

Educational Activities; Undergraduate teaching, Postgraduate teaching, Continuing medical education

Characteristics of the practice; Practice area, Practice premises, Ownership of premises, Branch surgeries, Number of doctors in the practice, Partnerships,

Practice organisation: Appointment systems, Age-sex registers; Practice Staff:

Employed staff: Medical assistant, Clerical staff, Practice nurses, All employed staff; Involvement of doctor's spouse in the practice; Overall staffing levels;

Practice Equipment: Diagnostic and therapeutic equipment, Practice computers;

Access to diagnostic/ treatment services

Conclusions

Acknowledgements

Description

Report on changes in the stucture of Irish General Practice from 1982 to 1992

Format Print

Keywords general practice

Publisher Irish College of General Practitioners

Classification general practice

Edition First

Pages 45

Categories: Reports, Irish Content, ICGP Resources